

NAZI FLAG RAISED OVER STRATEGIC FRENCH PORT OF BOULOGNE; ENGLAND PREPARES TO RESIST INVASION WHICH APPEARS INEVITABLE; SITUATION IS "GRAVE"

All British Troops Defending Channel City Able To Escape—British Military Circles Say Boulogne is Regarded As Temporarily Abandoned, Rather Than Permanently Lost

(By Charles A. Smith, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 24—The Nazi flag was raised over the strategic French channel port of Boulogne today, and England made preparations to resist an invasion that now appears inevitable.

With the admission that Boulogne has fallen to Nazi positions surging northward from Abbeville, British authorities termed the situation "very grave," but insisted that all British troops engaged in the unsuccessful defense of the channel city had escaped.

Whether they headed north for Calais in an effort to stem the German advance further northward, or embarked across the channel to strengthen the British home defenses was not known.

British military circles admitting that Boulogne is now held by strong German forces, said the town may be regarded as temporarily abandoned rather than permanently lost.

Offsetting this gloomy development was the announcement that Royal Air Force planes shot down 20 German craft and damaged 20 others. Eight British planes were shot down or are missing.

Large forces of British bombers heavily damaged immediate communication in the neighborhood of the fighting front and in Germany itself.

British authorities said the Germans took Boulogne presumably because they had stronger forces than the British were able to deal with.

British authorities made no attempt to minimize the gravity of the situation caused by Germany's capture of Boulogne. The city is only 30 miles from Folkestone, England, and is one of the basic channels of communication between England and France.

BERLIN, May 24—In a relentless drive across France and Belgium, aimed at complete domination of the English channel, German forces have occupied Maubeuge and Tournai, key points of Franco-Belgian defense as far as Boulogne on the French coast, Nazi military authorities said today.

Every attempt by the Allies to break through to the south in the Valenciennes area and shatter the German "iron ring" closing in on a million British, French and Belgian troops have been frustrated, it was said.

Six British transports, apparently attempting to evacuate troops from the channel area have been bombed and sunk, military officials declared. The average transport carries between 1,500 and 3,000 men.

PARIS, May 24—German war planes appeared over Paris today. Anti-aircraft guns surrounding the city opened fire. Puffs of smoke from bursting shells were clearly visible from the boulevard.

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY ON THE WESTERN FRONT, May 24—Nazi Germany's "iron ring" closed today around a million Allied troops caught in Belgium and France, while military spokesmen sketched this picture of the immediate future:

Mussolini and General Franco of Spain may be drawn into the whirlpool of war.

Hitler may be in a position to launch his greatest campaign.

Failure of the British invasion are also too evident in the English channel region now occupied by the Germans. Naval uniforms and the insignia of the naval artillery are to be seen everywhere and German crack aviators all are here.

"Mercy Ship" of Red Cross Soon To Sail For France

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24—The American Red Cross is now loading the first "mercy ship" to be sent abroad since the days of 1914, the sailing date for Bordeaux, France, being set for approximately June 1st.

According to Norman H. Davis, American Red Cross chairman, the Maritime Commission has agreed to make available either the Arteson or the McKeesport, which are government-owned ships.

According to Davis, it has been decided to send the ship quickly because of the desperate condition of "at least 5,000,000 refugees streaming towards Southern France from the northern part of the country, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg."

The supplies will include clothes, drugs, soap, cooking utensils, gauze and a wide variety of foodstuffs. There also will be 100 hospital trucks.

Three Red Cross executives will leave Sunday by clipper plane for France to be there to meet the ship when she docks. They are Richard F. Allen, a native of Craig, Mo., now in New York; and two assistants, Paul Thorne and William Giblin. Thorne is a native of Clarksburg, W. Va.; Giblin is a resident of Dorchester, Mass.

Wayne Chatfield Taylor, Red Cross delegate to Europe, cabled today a story of pathetic scenes he witnessed as the tide of refugees rolled into Paris.

"Whole families who have been on the road four or five days arrive with their feet bloody and legs swollen. Many had walked 80 miles," Taylor said.

"In one small first aid room in a Paris railroad station, I talked with four parents, whose children died on the way."

"As this pitiful stream of refugees poured through the railroad station the wounded were sent to the first aid room, where the wives of two French generals, now at the front, were directing the Red Cross aid. These women were washing the bleeding and blistered feet of French and Belgian peasants."

Reasons For Protest

Washington, May 23. IN a period concededly critical of the overwhelming trend of press and public is to put aside partisanship and support the head of the nation in questions of national defense and foreign policy. There has been a striking manifestation of this in the present emergency. Hardly anyone has dissented from the Roosevelt request for another great appropriation.

HOWEVER, it is deeply significant that while there is almost united approval of the Roosevelt demand for more than an additional billion for preparedness, there is a definite distrust of his ability to expend this sum wisely and without waste. There also is a conviction

MAN WHO STOLE $125 IS GRANTED PAROLE

His Minimum Sentence Would Have Expired On June 12

EQUITY HEARING HELD

DOYLESTOWN, May 24—With President Judge Hiram H. Keller on the bench, a hearing in equity court was held yesterday with John Komarnicki as the plaintiff versus Peter Logan, the defendant.

The plaintiff avers that March 5, 1938, the plaintiff and defendant entered into a partnership agreement for the purpose of growing tomatoes so that the defendant could fulfill his contract with the Campbell Soup Company. The plaintiff avers that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff to the amount of $1,090.22 with interest from October 3, 1938.

The plaintiff, Komarnicki, lives between Langhorne and Fallsington, and the defendant's farm is near Feasterville, in Southampton township.

George Newsome, 19, Hallowell, who pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was sentenced April 2, was granted a parole by Judge Calvin S. Boyer.

Newsome began serving his sentence March 12 and his minimum sentence would have expired June 12.

He was sentenced by Judge Boyer to serve not less than three months nor more than five years.

The value of goods stolen amounted to $215.

Two Conshohocken youths, Michael Bosco, 19, of Forest street, and Dominick Concilio, 22, 147 East Elm street, pleaded guilty before President Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judge Calvin S. Boyer, on Tuesday, to charges of felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods which involved the theft of chickens in Bucks county.

Because Alex Falicka, who is being held on a similar charge, is going to stand trial, the Court deferred sentence until some disposition has been made of the Falicka case. The two youths were remanded to the County Prison to await the outcome of the case.

Corporal William F. Herman, of the Doylestown sub-station of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, revealed that the boys confessed going with Hastings C. Disc and stealing 285 chickens from the farm of F. H. Headon, near Fountainville; stealing 140 chickens from the farm of Norman Clymer, near Quakertown, between July 23rd and August 26th. He said, however, that the boys denied having anything to do with the theft of four sheep from the estate of Mrs. William R. Mercer, near here, September 5th.

Concilio, the first of the two young men to take the witness stand, testified that they met Disc in a restaurant in Conshohocken and that he offered them a job on his farm, near Pottstown.

"The first time we went out to steal chickens we did not know that they were not his but after that when he broke a lock we knew what he was doing," said Concilio. "Disc carried a

Legionnaires Compile 5th Column Information

PHILADELPHIA, May 24—Hundreds of Legionnaires have been compiling material since last December on alleged "fifth column" activities in Pennsylvania's industries, railroads, shipyards and utilities, it was revealed today.

"One man has been designated for this work from each of the State's 656 Legion posts," disclosed Edward R. Stirling, commander of the Legion's Pennsylvania Department. The agents are co-operating, he said, with the State motor police, Army and Navy secret agents and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"We even know some of the individuals who have come into this country to direct subversive work," asserted Stirling. "We have located short-wave sending and receiving stations and are checking up on them. The material is then turned over to the FBI."

MAN'S LEGS BROKEN IN EARLY MORNING CRASH

Automobile Smashes Into Two Trucks Transferring Loads at Green Lane

THREE OTHERS HURT

Four men sustained injuries this morning when an automobile driven by one of the injured crashed into two trucks, the contents of which were being transferred from one to the other. The accident occurred beneath the elevated railroad bridge at Green Lane at about five o'clock.

Injured: Claude Mason, Trenton, N. J. Both legs fractured above the knees.

George V. Dougherty, Wilson avenue, Bristol. Bruised knee.

Harry S. Bowen, Philadelphia. Small finger of right hand severed.

Horace C. Prevost, Bristol R. D. 1. Bruises about limbs and chest.

Mason and Bowen were taken to the Harriman Hospital, where they were treated. Prevost was later taken into the custody of the police and held for a hearing.

A truck of the Fisher Baking Co., Trenton, was parked with traffic beneath the bridge on the east side of the roadway. Dougherty's truck was parked on the same side of the roadway, against traffic. The two trucks were parked back to back and the contents were being transferred from one to the other.

Prevost was driving his car north on Green Lane and failing to see the trucks crashed into the Dougherty truck, which in turn smashed into the Fisher truck. Prevost's car struck with such force that the Fisher truck was driven back 35 feet until stopped by concrete supports of bridge.

When the crash occurred Dougherty, Mason and Bowen were standing between the two bread trucks. Dougherty told police he saw the Prevost car coming. He said he yelled and jumped.

Mason was taken to the Harriman Hospital by Leo Schlesman, driver of another truck parked at some distance from the scene.

Mrs. William Biester One of the Forceful Speakers at Doylestown Session

ALSO SECY BROWN

State Secretary of Commerce Berates Inefficiency of The National Administration

(By Staff Representative)

DOYLESTOWN, May 24—Two speakers, whose thoughts were closely aligned on the questions of national defense, cessation of participation in any of Europe's quarrels, and onward march of the Republican party for the good of the United States of America as a whole, held members of Bucks County Council of Republican Women spellbound, yesterday afternoon, at the Spring meeting in Salem Reformed Church.

"America should be through taking any part in European wars or European quarrels," was the statement made by Mrs. William H. Biester, Drexel Hill, representing the Republican State Committee, which brought rounds of applause.

And from the Honorable Richard P. Brown, Secretary of Commerce of the State of Pennsylvania, came these words as he made a comparison of the "utter inefficiency of our Washington administration, and the pronounced efficiency of our state administration." "Vast sums have been spent in the United States during the past few years, and what have we got to show for it in the way of national defense? . . . We spent millions of dollars in taking lessons when those men should have been trained as tool-makers and machinists. Should our government in a war emergency need tool-makers and machinists for our protection, it would be difficult to find the men in sufficient number to carry out the work."

Mrs. Biester, in her ever forceful way, gave much food for thought, and timely information; and the secretary of commerce, although limited to a few minutes due to other engagements, packed a wealth of advice into that brief period.

Introduced by the president of the Bucks County Council, Mrs. John W. Cooper, Pineville, Mrs. Biester, who is also vice-president of the Philadelphia Federated Clubs, and who served a few years ago as national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, brought greetings from the Republican State Committee. Quoting the late Charles Schwab, "An aristocrat is not a person of birth or wealth, but a person who does things," Mrs. Biester added, "I feel I am associating with real aristocrats;" she then complimented the Bucks County Republican workers on their activities. "In these days of uncertainty and doubt, these council meetings embody the leadership we so much need." Mentioning the part which destiny has assigned to the active Republican men and women, she urged those "who give unstintingly of fine qualities in daily performance of your duties to continue to carry on. Our greatest power comes from the fact that we want to do our duties well. He who gives daily good service in the crowd exemplifies the kind of heroism that has carried to great success the Republican party. The Republican party has risen to great heights, not by crushing out individual initiative, but by developing individual initiative."

Looking back over the seven transitional years, with their many problems, Mrs. Biester continued by saying: "But the problems are almost behind us, and hope beckons us on to a new road. The Republican party binds us in fraternity, patriotism and service." She then mentioned the Republican standards which give hope and life to children, youth, and the aged, as well as each individual life in the land. Her message to the women workers also contained this: "There are no limits to the heights to which woman can climb, spiritually, physically, or in organization work. We find inner satisfaction in a work well done, and the work of the Republican council of women has been well done. But let us not rest on our laurels, for we face the biggest job. If there is any subject close to the heart of women today, it is the subject of defense." Taking the gathering in fancy back to the days of 1917, Mrs. Biester listed the costs and debts of the World War. "We sought no territory. We asked no reward. Yet the record of the World War is a ghastly one. And when you remember that there are thousands of men still waiting for their armistice, we wonder why men in Europe stir up reasons for war. . . . The people in Europe are quite unable to forgive and quite unable to forget," this being followed by admissions made to her by Belgium soldiers that they could neither forget nor forgive what the Germans had done to them in 1914. "It is not difficult for me, after hearing those admissions, to understand the feeling that still exists in those countries. And America should be through taking any part in European wars or European quarrels." The woman speaker berated conditions here that permit destruction of human lives, but protect

MOMENT OF DISILLUSION

In a struggle for survival, morale is almost as important as power. Without it, defeat is a foregone conclusion; with it, there is at least the promise of vigorous defense, perhaps victory. But a morale that is based on false hopes and is inflated by misrepresentation of the facts is worse than nothing. When the moment of disillusion comes, it is harder than ever to build a true morale.

For more than two years that has been the trouble with both Europe and America. Too many Pollyannas have been proclaiming that in spite of appearances, this is the best of all possible worlds. Too many soothing voices have made millions deaf to shouts of warning. Americans were lulled into a feeling of security by leaders who were either abysmally ignorant or artfully insincere. A pitiful eagerness to believe the best, discredit the worst, made this deception possible.

When Hitler marched into the Rhineland and Mussolini invaded Ethiopia, it should have been easy to see the handwriting on the wall.

The Austrian coup and the occupation of Sudetenland, culminating in the tragic farce of Munich, undermined faith in the policy of appeasement; but America was told that if worst came to worst it was better to postpone hostilities until England and France could catch up to Germany in military power. Nobody believed it to be true if it was hinted that Germany's production capacity was greater than that of the Allies.

Even the shock of the German-Russian alliance was eased by assurances that Russia could be of little help to Germany because of transportation defects and the inefficiency of the red army. But between then they demolished Poland; and Russia, in spite of unexpected resistance, overran Finland.

After the Nazi blitzkrieg into Norway, increasing alarm was met with promises that Britain would soon have the Germans dislodged. Holland was the next victim, and then Belgium. Even when the Germans blasted their way through Sedan it was explained that this was only the tailend of the great Maginot line. The real line would hold, and it was deep enough to check any temporary advance.

Today it is a different story. Nazi mechanized troops, supported by overwhelming air forces, have plowed to within a few miles of Paris. While Allied communiqués report that the situation is "grave but not catastrophic," General Gamelin orders his soldiers "to conquer or die." Two days later he is replaced as commander-in-chief of the Allied forces by General Weygand.

That, at last, is the unvarnished truth. The consoling voices are silent. Even in the United States, where none would permit himself to think of the possibility of a German victory, complacency has given way to hysteria in some quarters; in others, to frenzied last-minute efforts to make up for the time the nation lost while under the anodyne of misplaced optimism.

Now is the moment to cultivate a morale based on the realities; a spirit that was evoked a quarter of a century ago by the battle cry, "They shall not pass!"

The tragedy of it is the task has been made more difficult by professional shudders of sweetness and light who have almost made us believe that England loses every battle except the last one.

Distributing Flags To Decorate Graves

Mexican War, 24; Civil War, 2120; Spanish-American War, 52, and the First World War, 331.

A bronze grave marker is placed at the grave of each soldier designating in which war he served. Each marker contains a flag holder in which is placed a standard American flag.

The flag is fastened to a dark blue staff and its use is prohibited otherwise than at a veteran's grave, it was pointed out by Register Murphy.

A tour through all the burial grounds in the county shows what a vast improvement has been made in the care and upkeep of the veterans' graves.

About ten years ago, several of the burial grounds were over-run and unsightly because of weeds and brush; today, through the interest of veterans' organizations and friends, the burial grounds have been cleared off and now present a favorable and dignified appearance.

"The larger cemeteries in Bucks county are remarkably well kept and are maintained in a high degree of excellence all the year round," said Mr. Murphy.

Mr. Murphy also pointed out that Memorial Day, which will be observed Thursday, May 30th, this year, will be observed by about 22 organizations and churches throughout the county. Various organizations, including veterans' posts and school children, will take part in the ceremonies which will include programs and volley firing.

concession to the needs of defenses." Similar views are expressed privately by Democratic Senators, willing enough to vote for the appropriation but full of misgivings about its administration. In plain words, they do not believe he has the capacity to handle this job efficiently or the will to do it without thought of politics. These are serious allegations to make at a time such as this, but that they are made—and by responsible people in no way connected with the political opposition—cannot be ignored.

TITAN TOWER by JAMES G. CHESNUTT

Story So Far

Drawn together as they aid accident victim atop Titan Tower, new skyscraper, Nurse Linda Morton and Dr. Bill Blaine sense mutual affection. With memories of her love for late Airman Mike Morton still warm, however, Linda feels very mixed emotions as she day-dreams of possible romance with the debonair young medic. After her harrowing roof-top experience, Linda returns home, untroubled. Her mind goes back to that tragic night when Mike was killed in a crash. After his death, no word of sympathy came for Linda from Mike's wealthy parents who disapproved of her marriage. So, when Mickey was born, she did not let them know. Linda's reverie is interrupted by the arrival of her friends, naive Janice Marberry and sophisticated Josephine Monroe. Speaking of the accident, Linda asks if they know Dr. Blaine. She learns from Jo he is in the Social Register and his father owns Titan Tower. The matchmaking Jo detects that Linda is more than professionally interested in Bill and urges her to "play single. Men like Bill Blaine are interested in GIRLS, not mothers." . . . Linda says she will never deny Mickey but, later that night, she is torn between love for her son and a young woman's yearning for romance.

CHAPTER NINE

The next day, back at work in the office, Linda thought more and more of Jo's suggestion of the night before.

Dr. Thorpe smilingly accused her of wool-gathering and offered to bet that her thoughts were miles away—back in her home state maybe—and that's when she asked the question she didn't mean to ask.

"About Dr. Blaine, Dr. Thorpe," Linda said, "you told me you supported him—I didn't understand." "Not Billy Blaine, child," Dr. Thorpe laughed. "I was talking about his father. Old J. R. practically owns the building. I pay him a fancy rent each month."

"Oh!" said Linda. "Thanks." The morning was almost a total blank for Linda, but somehow she managed to get her work done. When lunch time came, she couldn't have told you why she went to the sun deck on the roof, but would have ascribed it probably to a sudden desire for sun.

If Linda went to the roof garden in hopes of meeting someone, it is safe to assume that someone wasn't the one she met.

It was there and then that Linda met Steve Hubbard.

The sun was bright and glaring, and Linda closed her eyes against its brightness. As she stretched her supple young form in the gayly colored deck chair, she noted that, despite the sun, it wasn't uncomfortably warm. Up there on the sun-deck of Titan Tower, twenty-five stories above the street, a gentle cooling breeze blew stray wisps of hair about her forehead, achieving an effect which Linda would have corrected had she been aware of it, but which was totally charming.

It was not of necessity that Linda closed her eyes against the bright sunlight. She had another alternative, had she chosen to use it. In the purse near her were a pair of dark sun glasses.

But, four feet away, on the other side of a potted palm, was an empty deck chair, its expanse of bright awning looking comfortable and inviting. And, if any chance visitor to the roof should choose to sit down in that chair, he would surely see Linda; particularly if the visitor were a tall and tanned young man with nice blue eyes, a white, enguling smile and skilled, long hands—a man who was on the roof under less tranquil circumstances yesterday, a man who was afraid he'd wake up and find her, Linda, gone.

Well, he didn't need to be afraid of that. Little Linda was right here. But where was Dr. Blaine?

Linda had not been too preoccupied, arriving at the building that morning, to look under the "B's" on the huge register near the entrance and she had found it there.

"BLAINE," it read, "William Meredith, M. D., 1902-12."

Before coming to the roof during her lunch hour, she had taken a brief sortie down to the nineteenth

The chair was no longer empty. Stretched from the part she saw were a pair of legs. The legs were neatly pressed brown trousers.

Linda sat upright and peered through the foliage of the palm, blinking against the sun, to see the rest of the chair's occupant. Right under the palm's fans was the face of a young man. It was not Dr. Blaine. Linda sat back in her chair. "I beg your pardon, the strange man said, 'but is this chair taken?'"

Linda didn't answer for a long moment. She noticed that the young man had a pleasant boyish grin, wide spaced cheekbones and long-lashed frank gray eyes which seemed ten floor, a sort of furtive scouting trip. It was a risky thing to do—suppose HE had come out of the office door while she stood there like a dummy! How could she explain her curiosity; how could she assume a nonchalant pose under the circumstances?

There was no need for nervousness, however. The doors of the suite of six offices neither opened nor closed during her brief reconnaissance.

Linda had memorized the legend on the glass door of 1902—the one which was topped by the capital word: "ENTER."

Mentally, she reviewed the sequence of the names:

Franc Carter Vance, M. D., General Surgery
William M. Blaine, M. D.
Leonard Renquist, M. D.

So that was the "Rennie" to whom Bill Blaine had generously given the credit yesterday for the success of the amputation on the trapped workman. Dr. Renquist was the scowling, tired-looking, young man who assisted in the precarious operation.

Suddenly Linda realized that she was hungry, that she had not eaten lunch before coming to the roof. She opened her eyes, and the first thing she saw was the lower portion of the empty deck chair on the other side of the palm.

years older than his grin. She noticed that the face was surmounted by dark hair which looked as though it wouldn't take orders from even military brushes, unless each was a full general. And, under the forepeak of the hair was a brow that had tried to tan, but succeeded better in some spots than others. Linda noticed, also, that the stranger had a nose. It wasn't aquiline or fine or strong. It was just a nose.

It definitely wasn't a pretty face, Linda decided, and nothing to make a girl's heart go pitty-pat, but it was a nice face. It didn't look as though it could be rented out Halloween's, to scare little children.

Just a little fresh around the edges, Linda concluded—an old approach, calling for a trite courteous retort.

"Yes," she answered his question, without smiling, "You seem to have taken it."

"My apologies," the chair-taker said, but the grin didn't fade. "I didn't know this was a private beach. You should post signs to keep out the riff-raff."

It may have been the sun or it may have been the constant, friendly grin, Linda's quickly frozen reserve as quickly melted. She smiled back at him.

don referred to had been discussed, was—to say the least—disingenuous.

OF course, the invitation is not extended because of the competency or character of the politicians, but merely because of their political positions and names. Once inside the Administration, they not only would have had no power to formulate policy but they would forfeit all right to criticism. They—and to some extent—their party would have been bottled up for the whole campaign. No wonder the inner-circle boys were enthusiastic over the idea of throwing out Mr. Woodring, side-tracking Mr. Johnson, and putting in Colonel Knox. No wonder they felt it would be fine to make places for Governor Landon, Colonel Donovan and Mr. Dwight Davis. In addition to putting nice Republicans in as Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy, there were those who thought it also would be a good idea to force Mr. Farley's resignation and put a Republican—for the duration of the campaign—in his place too.

FROM their standpoint, it was a swell scheme, and there is indignation that the protest came from Democratic sources. If it could have been put over as planned, it would have fitted in beautifully with the hysterical effort to make it seem unpatriotic to oppose nominating Mr. Roosevelt by unanimous consent and electing him by default. The truth is that the present criticism of Mr. Roosevelt is rooted not in politics but in patriotism. It does not seem patriotic to permit, without protest, the man who has wasted so many billions, now in a real national crisis, to spend more billions under the influence of notoriously incompetent and politically minded advisers.

America Should Be Through Taking Any Part in European Quarrels, G. O. P. Women Told the almighty dollars of those who could possibly aid in halting such holocausts.

Again giving attention to the Republican party and its principles, Mrs. Biester said: "Certainly we can say there will never be a more acceptable party than the Republican party. What of the days just ahead of us? Well, first we must impress upon the people of the United States that we are honest in all of our efforts, and the name of the Republican party will continue to be an honored one."

Mr. Brown, in his short but excellent message, also had this to say after pointing out lack of equipment in the national guard units of certain nearby states: "This is a serious situation, ladies. It's serious because we spent millions of dollars in raking leaves when those men should have been trained as tool-makers and machinists." After considering the inefficiency in the federal administration, he turned thoughts toward Harrisburg, showing how, since Governor Arthur A. James had been at the state helm, Pennsylvanians' chances at jobs had increased steadily. "I have yet to hear of an industry of any size that has left Pennsylvania since Governor James took over. Pennsylvania is no longer a state which our industries are shunning. They are willing to expand here. And if conditions continue in this manner during the next biennium, we should be able to reduce some taxes." He mentioned the saving to taxpayers, through cuts made in number of state employees, with expanding industry taking up much of the "slack." "We should have an administration at Washington that is efficient and competent, and one that can give us sufficient defense. And if we had in Washington such an administration as we have at Harrisburg we would not have a thing to worry about."

Mrs. Cooper supplemented the defense messages of the two speakers, urging for better equipment, but asked the women to heed the plea of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, not to become hysterical alarmists. Then another plea was "I again ask you to take home to yourselves that you must work as never before to gain Republican votes and a victorious Republican campaign."

The third speaker of the afternoon, Miss Nancy P. Highley, a State Republican Committeewoman, and president of Norristown Council of Republican Women, spoke in her capacity as a member of the board of trustees of the state hospital at Norristown. But before launching her excellent message, giving information about the hospital, she, too, had a word to say bearing out the messages of the two who preceded her: "We must work to keep our boys over on this side."

In regards to the state hospital at Norristown, Miss Highley told of the method of management of the institution whose patients come from Delaware, Montgomery, Philadelphia, and the southern part of Bucks County. The patients now total 3700. "And isn't it wonderful that we can care for 3700 in one institution, and not have them upset 3700 different homes?" she queried. Among other information given was that there are 630 employees, 18 buildings for patients and two others for tubercular patients. The women heard how the patients help in growing and preparation of food, thus keeping them contented, and were told of the farm, the dairy, piggery, and the excellent facilities at the institution.

Music during the afternoon was provided by the secretary, Mrs. Howard Kooker, Quakertown, who sang "God Bless America," and Mrs. Irvin McNair, who gave two delightful piano solos.

Business and reports were included during the morning hours, preceding luncheon served by women of Salem Reformed Church. Mrs. A. Oscar Martin, chairman of membership, reported 345 enrolled in the council, urging each member to secure two additional members by September 12th, in an effort to secure a membership of 1,000. Miss Eleanor Worthington, program committee chairman, offered a report of the sessions of the Republican State Committee held at Harrisburg.

One decision made by members was to conduct a single lengthy session on October 12th, instead of two shorter sessions. Luncheon to be served at Doylestown Country Club at 12 o'clock.

noon, followed by election and the program. Auditors named by the president, Mrs. Cooper, are Mrs. Samuel Clymer, Warrington, and Miss Anna Darrah, Hartsville; and the nominating committee includes: Mrs. A. Russell Thomas, chairman; Mrs. C. Wilson Roberts, Southampton; and Mrs. W. O. Hunsicker, Perkasie. For the council cad party on June 20th, Mrs. J. C. Conroy is chairman, aided by a large committee, which will meet at the country club here on June 7th, to complete arrangements. One hundred dollars of the sum expected to be raised is to be used to pay the pledge to the state council.

Mrs. John Blackfan, chairman of legislation, was in charge of the morning program. She conducted a quiz, the questions touching on principles of the council, financing of the organizations, regional conference divisions of the state, etc. A part of the program included readings by Mrs. Ira Fravel, Wrightstown, in regard to strengthening defense forces. One article entitled, "But They Were Not Equal to Modern Weapons," dealt with the invasion of the Netherlands, inadequateness of equipment of the invaded countries being pointed out by U. S. Army men. It was then shown that the position of this country in regards to defense depends on the state of thorough preparation on the part of the people. In another article it was mentioned that the forces of this country are better equipped now than at any other peace-time period.

Mrs. Mary Yardley, of Yardley, told of legislation at the special session of the state legislature, which was called primarily to provide for relief funds. She gave the 11 points of Governor James' call for the session. Mentioning the drop in relief rolls in the state, Mrs. Yardley told that relief funds will soon be exhausted, telling the ways in which the situation could be met—break-down of the present set-up, increased taxes, or transfers and economies, with Governor James choosing the latter method. "The pobbess will benefit, and also the tax-payers," was one of her comments. She also reminded that Governor James is more and more convincing of his integrity and determination to live up to campaign pledges to conduct state affairs in an economic way.

musicians of the morning, presenting two vocal duets.

CROYDON Y. M. A. WINS OVER KING SUPPLY

CROYDON, May 24—"Henny" Morgan's Y. M. A. boys chalked up their third straight win in the Bristol Suburban League, trimming the King Supply aggregation, of Morrisville, on the State Road field last night. Final score was 5-2. As a result of the victory, Y. M. A. now is even with Voltz-Texaco in the number of games won.

Manager Morgan aided the Croydonites immensely in the game. After Riley seemed to be going bad in the third, Morgan took it upon himself to take up the pitching duties. He got into a bit of hot water by filling the bags, but retired the last two players on outs. Morgan was the winning pitcher.

The Morrisville team outthit the localities, 7-6, but in the pinches the home club was more timely. The King club had seven runners left on base.

BRISTOL HIGH GIRLS TROUNCE NEW HOPE, 11-4

NEW HOPE, May 24—Scoring in bunches of threes, the Bristol High girls easily trounced New Hope High girls here yesterday afternoon, 11-4. The victory marked the fourth in five starts for coach Peg Royer's club and enabled them to climb into a second place tie with the Southampton Canines.

For four innings it was a close ball game with Bristol ahead at the end of that time, 4-3. But then the visitors hopped on Louise Schwartz for their second group of three markers to step ahead, 7-3, in the top half of the fifth frame. With one out, Grace Walterick walked. Ethel Luck was safe on an error, Ann Warwick singled, and Helen White doubled to account for the markers. Bristol added one more in the sixth after New Hope scored a single out in their half of the fifth, then sewed up the issue with their final trio in the 7th.

PICK OPPONENTS FOR THREE BRISTOL BOXERS

Opponents for the three Bristol boys who are to appear on the opening card of the outdoor boxing season, which opens in the St. Ann's A. A. arena, Wood and Franklin streets, Monday night, have been picked, according to Matchmaker Jimmy Reilly.

The localites on the show, all booked for four-round bouts, are: Hokey Leighton, Joe Ferrara, and Andy Kondrya. Leighton and Ferrara are both well-known in this section, having fought in amateur boxing for several years.

Leighton will have as his foe, Jack Spina, a Philadelphiaan, who has been in professional boxing for two years. Leighton has been keeping himself in trim throughout the winter months by fighting in the Trenton Arena, where he made a fine showing.

Reno Pascucci, Trenton, will be matched with Joe Ferrara. Ferrara recently turned pro and has several victories to his log. He will fight in the vicinity of 125 pounds.

A little Polish boy from Hayes street, Andy Kondrya, will make his professional debut in the resident ring. His foe will be Joe Snell, Philadelphia. Kondrya looked good in his training sessions and will be out to open his book with a victory.

Matchmaker Reilly, last night, announced that he has booked six bouts for the entertainment of the fans. The Padlo-Cheaton windup will be eight rounds. Then two sixes will follow, and the Bristol boys will participate in the opening three bouts.

There's One you can't pass by!

They're rolling out fast... and your Buick dealer keeps them rolling by making swell deals!

ENTICING are the offerings flagging your eye from behind the plate glass along Automobile Row—how in the world can a poor mortal pick the best of the bunch?

You can't try them all, it's plain. But there's one thing you can do that makes a lot of sense.

Just give yourself a yardstick to start with.

Take the car that all the talk's about. Give yourself something to go on by trying a Buick first.

Of course, it may be tough on the next fellow once you've sampled Buick's swift and thrifty Dynaflex straight-eight—no other engine made is balanced after assembly to slick-as-watchworks smoothness.

And stout, soft coil springs all around, especially when combined with ride-steadying torque-tube drive, may spoil you entirely for any other kind of ride.

Again, there are things like recoil-mounted Kneec-Action, pressure-sealed cooling systems, Two-Way Direction Signals with automatic cut-off and so on that you simply can't find elsewhere.

But it isn't only Buick's six-dozen new features that make this the car you can't pass by—it's also the price.

That puts a really great car within your reach. It buys not only a lot of exclusives and extras, but gives you more of the basic things, such as power and size and deep-rooted sturdiness—a longer car and the sturdiest frame at the money.

Current prices start at $895★ for the business coupe, delivered at Flint, Mich.—transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), and optional equipment and accessories extra.

That adds up to delivered prices that will open your eyes wide—so why not ask your Buick dealer for the whole story and a free demonstration?

ABOUT SCOUTS AND SCOUTING

The material used in this column will be contributed by the Scribes of the following units and Scouters interested in the work: Bristol Presbyterian Church, Scout Troop 3002; Cub Pack 3002; Harriman Methodist Church, Scout Troop 3007; St. James' Episcopal Church, Scout Troop 3025; Group of Citizens headed by Walter Fitzpatrick, Troop No. 3048; Bristol B. TIME

Time is one of the great riddles of the ages. Every one in the world has the same amount of it—24 hours each day.

We are all alike, too, in only having Today. Yesterday is gone, Tomorrow may never come—so that every living person has today, this hour, this minute at his disposal.

We do, however, differ greatly in the ways we use this little measure of time; we differ in what we put into it and therefore of course in what we take out of it. Some idle away their chances, others use them to serve and to move onward and upward in life.

The Scout recognizes that lost time, like water that has passed beneath the bridge, is gone forever; he recognizes that with time he cannot (fox-like) "back-track"—he passes this way but once and then that day's chance for "Good Turns," for cordiality, for cheerfulness, for self-improvement, for learning, for thrift—that day's chance is gone—it never returns.

So Scouts value time and use it thoughtfully and with purpose!

MEETING OF TROOP NO. 2

Meeting was called to order by the scoutmaster. There were 24 present and two leaders. Dues were collected and about Oath and flag salute and Scout Laws were said. We had patrol corners and discussion about Camporee to be held June 7-8. The games of Touch and Weak Horses were played. The rest of the evening was spent in washing chairs. These chairs are to be sold. On May 25th, our bake sale will be held at the Presbyterian Church, at 11 a. m. Merit badge tests were passed as follows: Civics, by James Bolton and Linton Martin; First Study, by James Bolton and Linton Martin.

On Saturday, the Troop gave a minstrel show in Doylestown; we placed third for stunts.

The meeting was closed. —SCRIBE

MEMORIAL DAYS

Confederate Memorial Day is May 10th in Kentucky and North Carolina. It is May 30th in Virginia. Decoration Day is May 30th in many other states.

To have seen "Gone With the Wind" in the movies is to have received a deep, lasting impression of that great fraternal struggle that devastated the south and almost destroyed the Nation. It is to realize the appalling wastefulness of war and the futility of trying to settle anything by fighting.

Each of us can do our part to develop a better understanding of the various sections of our own country. Spreading outward from that vantage point, we can envision the world as a great brotherhood. For many years, American Scouts visiting Niagara

The meeting of Troop No. 7, on Friday, May 17, 1940, was assembled by George Boyer, the bugler. The meeting was held outside, at which time drilling was held in preparation for Scouting Day. After drilling, the troop was addressed by the troop chaplain, the Rev. Matchette. Then the troop went inside the church and had inspection and collection of dues. The meeting was dismissed by the bugler. On Saturday, May 18, 1940, the following day, both patrols, consisting of the whole troop, made standard at Scouting Day. To get standard, a patrol needs 450 points or above, out of a possible 600.

"20 TO 21 MILES PER GALLON ON LONG TRIP"

IF YOU WANT A CAR that will not only give you the best there is in modern motoring, but also save money for you while it's doing it, go look at a 1940 Pontiac. And drive it!

Just take it around the block, if that's all the time you can spare. It's enough to show you that here's the kind of a car you'll really enjoy driving.

Notice the Pontiac ride—it's "Triple-Cushioned." Notice the smooth, quiet, determined way a Pontiac handles its acceleration. And notice particularly Pontiac's thrilling ease of steering and shifting gears. It's America's No. 1 "driver's car."

And you'll find it a penny-pinching miser on operating costs. Big gas and oil saving is only the start of it. Pontiac's "long-life" engineering builds a Pontiac for fine and economical service long past the mileage point where other cars are past their prime!

ON THE SCREENS

BRISTOL THEATRE
"Pals of the Silver Sage," starring Tex Ritter, will open today at the Bristol Theatre. Seen in the cast of this feature are Sugar Dawn, six-year-old rodeo star, Slim Andrews, Clarissa Curtis, Glen Strange, Carleton Young and Warner Richmond.

Martha Raye and Charlie Ruggles, two of Hollywood's front-rank laugh-getters head the cast of Paramount's "The Farmer's Daughter," which is slated to open today at the Bristol Theatre.

With two such zanies in the top roles, the film settles down to accumulate laughs, and its success in that direction is indicated by the unusual story angles.

GRAND THEATRE

The gala premiere of Walter Wanger's "The House Across the Bay," at the Grand Theatre, last night, proved to be an exciting event in motion picture history. Not only has Mr. Wanger produced another top-notch motion picture, but he has spotlighted a story which is positively one hundred per cent audience entertainment.

With George Raft in one of his punchiest and most exciting roles in years, and Joan Bennett giving the best performance of her outstanding career, "The House Across the Bay" is without question one of the most important pictures to come out of Hollywood in many a moon.

Archie Mayo, director of many notable hits, was at the megaphone for "The House Across the Bay," and he has infused the picture with rich drama.

RITZ THEATRE

They say that ingenuity always is at a premium in Hollywood, and if that is true Dennis Morgan, currently opposite Priscilla Lane in "Three Cheers for the Irish" at the Ritz Theatre, ought to go far in the film capital.

Intent on again bringing to the executives' attention the singing voice which originally got him out here, the young actor, at a total cost of $8.93, has made a complete test in color and sound of the male lead in "White Horse Inn."

WILLOW GROVE PARK OPEN DAILY

At 4:30 in the afternoon, the Upper Darby High School band, orchestra and chorus—

400 students in all—will put on a varied program of instrumental music and singing. The students will arrive at the park early in the afternoon, play games on the athletic field, give their concert, and then enjoy a picnic supper. At eight in the evening, Olney High School's 80-piece band and its splendid a capella choir will give a concert in the famous shell of the music pavilion. Admission to both of these concerts is free. Following the concert by Olney High School, the popular Royalists Band will play for dancing in the park's beautiful new ballroom. On Sunday, Frankie Schluth, the M. C. with a thousand costumes—will present an all-star stage show at three, seven and nine p. m., featuring nationally known vaudeville talent. LR. END STUDENTS TO COMPETE TOMORROW IN TENNIS MATCHES

Tournament To Be Held On Courts at George School, Near Newtown

PLAY STARTS AT 9 A. M.

Seven of The Eleven Schools Have Players Entered In The Tournament

The tennis tournament to be participated in by students from the public schools in Lower Bucks County will take place tomorrow on the courts at George School, near Newtown. Officials of George School will take charge of the tournament.

Five courts will be used, and it is expected the final match of the day will be run off at about five p. m. The matches will start at nine a. m. Some 30-odd matches will keep the aspirants to the first tennis title active throughout the entire morning and afternoon hours.

Seven of the eleven schools comprising the Lower Bucks County Association of Schools, will take part in the tournament. They include: Bensalem, Bristol, Buckingham, Langhorne, Morrisville, Newtown, and Southampton. The four schools not entering teams are Fallsington, New Hope, Richboro, and Yardley.

Six schools will send a four-man team to compete, with Buckingham sending only a two-man team. The tournament will consist only of singles play, there being no doubles teams to compete.

Literally, the tourney is so scheduled that there is to be "four tournaments within the one tournament." The seven schools sending teams will rate their players in 1-2-3-4 order, with the No. 1 players consisting of one section of the tourney, the No. 2 men as the third, and the No. 4 men as the fourth. No school will compete against another more than once in the opening round.

The winners will receive ribbons and will compete against sectional winners to enter the final round. There is to be a consolation tournament in each of the four divisions and they, too, will play off sectional winners, with the ultimate consolation champion to meet the elimination titlist in the final match with the winner of that match to be declared the first champion of the Lower Bucks League.

Dan Grady, Newtown's captain, and No. 1 player, won the men's single title of Newtown, last year.

ASHTON WINS SECOND SHUT-OUT FOR BENSALEM

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 24—Curve ball artist of the Bensalem mound staff, Gene Ashton, turned in his second straight shutout over the Morrisville Bulldogs as he twirled the Owls to a 5-0 triumph, for the fourth win in a row in league competition for the proteges of coach George Reimer. Previously they had lost four in a row.

In his last start Ashton shut out the Bulldogs at Morrisville last Friday, 7-0, in which Marty Phillips, the Blues ace pitcher, suffered his first and only defeat of the season. Ashton held the Bulldogs to only 3 hits last week but was reached for 5 yesterday. Incidentally, since Gene received credit for the protested win over Newtown, yesterday's victory marked his third in league play.

The Owls scored first in the 2nd frame when with two out, Strickler was safe on an error and scored from first on Hank Killian's single to right and an error by White. Pete Everett's double with these bases full accounted for two of the Owls' 3 runs in the third while the other crossed on an error. Bill Lamon and Gene Ashton collaborated for the Owls' last run in the fourth by delivering singles off Marty Phillips, who chimed in with a wild pitch in between to help the cause. The victory enabled the Owls to tie Morrisville for 3rd place each with 414.

FIFTH WARD PLAYS THE GAME WITH MANHATTAN

Although he pitched a no-hit game, Quindo Gerome had to be contented with a tie score last night on Grundy's field as the Fifth Ward Sporting Club and Manhattan deadlocked at 2-2. The game was called at the beginning of the seventh because of darkness.

Both runs scored off the Fifth Ward twirler were the result of errors in the sixth. Quindo, himself, being one of the guilty parties. Favoroso opened the frame by drawing a pass. Leon Clarella hit to Quindo who threw wide to first, making all hands safe. Snyder went out but Dugan sent a short fly to Caucei who slipped after the catch. Favoroso scoring. Mayo received the throw home and then threw wild to third in an effort to get Clarella who also scored.

The Warders made six hits off the arm of Girotti but he was tight in the pinches and only in the fifth did the Fifth Ward boys combine a walk, hit, and error for a pair of tallies.

To Make Biological Survey of Silver Lake

The following communication has been received by the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association:
Mr. John C. Johnson, Secretary,
Bristol Fish & Game Prot. Assn.,
Bristol, Pennsylvania.
Dear Mr. Johnson:

Sorry I haven't replied more fully to your letter in reference to Silver Lake, which has already been acknowledged, but I wanted to take the matter up with our Chief Fish Culturist before doing so.

You can be sure this Board wants to do what is right insofar as the restocking of Silver Lake is concerned and you no doubt know that at one time it was a source of egg supply for the Torresdale hatchery.

In talking the matter over with Mr.

Buller, I have asked him to have a biological survey made of the lake so we will be sure that everything is just to make the survey at the earliest right, before stocking begins. In my mind I thought that possibly it might be a good plan to keep it closed for a year or so after it was stocked in order to create some fishing. I don't know how your group feels about this, but whoever comes to Bristol will talk the matter over with you.

I am mighty glad the lake is completed. It really is a task to get everything as it should be, but I believe it is going to be another body of water for your group which should yield good results. I have asked Mr. Buller will be sure that everything is just to make the survey at the earliest possible date.

With all good wishes, I am,
Very truly yours,
C. A. FRENCH,
Commissioner of Fisheries.
